DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. §121:

I. Claims 1-4,6 are drawn to subject matter wherein at least one local computer provides a user interface and performs local data processing to interact with at least one remote computer which implements data processing (e.g., data management, data sharing) in response to the local computer to transfer data between the local computer and the remote computer, classified in class 709, subclass 203.

II. Claims 5 are drawn to Subject matter wherein computers located at distant sites transfer data via at least one dedicated communications line], classified in class 709, subclass 217.

III. Claims 7 are drawn to subject matter wherein data are transferred between and translated a remote server and a requesting computer, classified in class 709, subclass 219.

Gives details on access request and conversion

Inventions I and (II-III) are related as combination and subcombinations. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination Group I as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it does not set forth the details of the subcombinations as separately claimed and the patentability of the combination does not rely on the details of the subcombinations. The subcombination Group II has separate utility such as retrieving data stored in a database in a computer or digital data processing system, where a file is defined as a named collection of data. The subcombination Group III has separate utility such as changing a format of the data transferred between the computers and for transferring address data associated with user data between the computers to ensure that associated user data are transferred to or from the intended computers.

2. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and because the search required for each group is different and not co-extensive for examination purpose because these groups would require different searches on PTO's classification class and subclass e.g. a) the Group I search (claims 1-4, 6) would require use of search classified in Class 709, subclasses 203, (which would not required for the Groups II-III); b) the Group II search (claim 5) would require use of search Class 709, subclasses 217, (which would not be required for the Groups I and III ), and c) the Group III search (claim 7) would require use of search Class 709, subclasses 219 (which would not be required for the Groups I-II ) therefore restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

3. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to one of the above identified patentably distinct groups of designs. A reply to this requirement must include an election of a single group for prosecution on the merits, even if this requirement is traversed, 37 CFR 1.143. Any reply that does not include election of a single group will be held non-responsive. Applicant is also requested to direct cancellation of all drawing figures and the corresponding descriptions, which are directed to the non-elected.

4. Should applicant traverse this requirement on the grounds that the groups are not patentably distinct, applicant should present evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the groups to be obvious variations of one another. If the groups are determined not to be patentably distinct and they remain in this application, any rejection of one group over prior art will apply equally to all other embodiments. See Ex parte Appeal No. 315-40, 152 USPQ 71 (Bd. App. 1965). No argument asserting patentability based on the differences between the groups will be considered once the groups have been determined to comprise a single inventive concept.

5. In view of the above requirement, action on the merits is deferred pending compliance with the requirement in accordance with Ex parte Heckman, 135 USPQ 229 (P.O. Super. Exam. 1960).
